“Contaminazioni” is an independent Festival created by, and for, the students attending the National Academy of Dramatic Art “Silvio D’Amico” in Rome. It was founded in 2007 in order to give us the opportunity to experiment freely and to collaborate with students of other Roman institutions belonging to AFAM (Higher Artistic and Musical Institutions). The Festival’s aim is to create not only theatrical projects but also to promote a contamination among different artistic disciplines.
